

SEMI-WEEKLY INTERIOR JOURNAL.

VOL. XXIII.

STANFORD, KY., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1895.

NO. 62

WILLIAMSBURG, WHITLEY COUNTY.

The fiscal court of this county is in session.

The afternoon train Sunday killed a mule for Paris Williams.

The frosts have come in earnest and everything has assumed the appearance of Fall.

Mrs Richardson, of Terre Haute, Ind., and Miss Stevens, of Lexington, were the guests of Miss M. M. Tutt last week.

The Commercial Hotel came near burning Saturday. The fire was discovered before it got any headway and was extinguished.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith have returned from a visit to relatives in Ohio. Miss Alice O'Mara has gone to Washington, D. C., to visit her aunt.

Judge H. H. Tye, of this place, and Miss Lila Johnson, of Elizabethtown, were married at that place Tuesday evening and will be at home to their friends in Williamsburg in a few days.

Work will be begun in a few days to rebuild the Kentucky Lumber Co.'s saw mill that burned the first of August. It will not be as large as the old mill, but with the improved machinery will do about the same work.

We thought the L. J. man always kept up with the times, but we saw an article in last Tuesday's issue about Gov. Hogg, of Texas, trying to stop the prize fight. Gov. Hogg has been an ex-leader these many months now.

Mr. J. H. Franssen, our efficient assistant P. M., spent last week in Rockcastle county. Mr. A. R. Dyche, of London and W. H. Clark, of McKee, republican candidate for State Senator, were Monday. Mrs. Mary O'Mara and Mr. H. A. Baker are in Louisville.

Our schools opened this Fall with the most flattering prospects they have ever had. Our people are waking up to the realization of the need of an education and are using every means to give their children the advantage of the opportunities placed before them.

Col. W. O. Bradley spoke here Tuesday. The court house was well filled, but the crowd was nothing to compare with what the party managers expected. The attendance from the country was small and gave evidence that there is not as much interest being taken in the race as the republicans would like to see, but every effort will be made between now and November to bring out the voters.

After a very pleasant visit and trip with the press gang to Hopkinsville, Atlanta and other points of interest, we are glad to be at home once more. The press had a most delightful trip and received a most hearty welcome along the line of their journey. The Exposition is not complete yet, but there was much to be seen and the managers did their best to show us every place of interest and did all in their power to make our stay in their city pleasant.

He Maketh His Enemies to Praise Him.
Editor D. E. O'Sullivan was so surprised that Gov. McCrory greeted him cordially, after his years of abuse of him that he straightway went and printed the following in his Critic. One Congressman is a born gentleman and never lets small matters turn him from the middle of the road he has selected to use through life.

No man in Kentucky or out of it has been a more persistent opponent of Congressman McCrory than I have. Whenever he has offered for the Senate I have never failed to express the unfavorable opinion I held of his efforts at statesmanship. At times, I must confess, it seemed that I had some personal grievance against him, but often in the heat of conflict, one's pencil goes a little deeper under the cuticle than was intended.

At any rate, what I started out to say was, that I met Gov. McCrory the other day, and there was nothing in his pleasing smile, warm handshake and cheery manner to indicate that I was not his bosom friend. When a man gets the art of politicking down to such fine basis, I must tip my hat to him. If I had been in Gov. McCrory's place, I should neither have been so courteous nor considerate. The secret of the governor's popularity is now an open book to me. He keeps the even tenor of his way in spite of criticism and assault, and whatever happens he never loses his gentlemanness, that is part of his nature.

At last there is a revenue surplus in sight. The September tariff and internal revenue receipts will exceed the demands upon the treasury by $3,175,040. There is not much doubt that the revenues hereafter will be sufficient to meet the expenditures, in spite of the excessive pension payments and the extravagance of the last Congress in appropriations. When that becomes the habit of the revenues there will no longer be a gold-reserve problem to deal with.

An afternoon paper published at Paducah a day or two ago stated in connection with a funeral that "all the absent children were present at the services."

HUBBLE.

Eubanks Bros. sold some 1,200 lbs. steers to J. E. Bruce at $3 and 4c.

A. C. Garman and Brent Barnett sold some 900 lb. steers at $3 to J. C. Eubanks.

The last wheat sales were made in this settlement by Dunbar, Hubble and Prewitt to Markeberry at 6c.

Robert Onstott and wife and Mrs. Laura Johnson and daughter have returned to their home in Illinois.

Hog cholera has appeared in Tom Banks' lot and he and Spencer Hubble shipped together Thursday morning.

Crit Eubanks has bought the Speed Payton farm of 60 acres on Dix River, near Joseph McClary's, at about $25 per acre.

Nelson Hix, who has been working in the shop here with Arthur Land, has gone to Danville to accept a job in a shop there.

Dr. Herring reports Mrs. Wesley Sutton dangerously ill of diphtheria, to gather with other diseases, which are worrying her more or less.

Mr. Fields, E. Pendleton and Henry White all suffered considerable loss of tobacco by frost Monday night. About three acres was Fields' loss and others not so much.

Tom Terry has been visiting the property in this community for a few days and he says there will be no taxable property except land to pay tax on this year and that the horses and mule factories will have to suspend business on account of low prices.

Dr. Kinnaird was called to see Jim Green's child a few nights ago, which was feared had diphtheria, but on examination was pronounced not and we are glad to state to the public that no families have had it appear in them for 10 days. It will be remembered that Mrs. Wesley Sutton has had two previous cases in her family, which no doubt is the origin of her case now.

CRAB ORCHARD.

The series of meetings at the Christian church closed Wednesday night. Much good was done. On the last night Rev. Snodgrass delivered a lecture on his work while in the foreign field.

About noon Wednesday our people were alarmed by the ringing of bells and cries of "Fire!" All hurried to the residence of Mr. Dillon, the roof having caught from the flames. Men mounted to the roof and extinguished the flames before much damage was done.

The Stanford and Crab Orchard baseball teams crossed bats at the grounds here Wednesday afternoon. The game was called at the end of the 8th inning on account of darkness. The score stood 26 to 27 in favor of C. O. Because the game was not played to a finish, Stanford wanted to claim it by forfeiture, but it was so dark a batted ball could not be seen at all and it would have been worse than folly to have continued the game longer.

Miss McCrory, of Champaign, Ill., Misses Mamie and Lula McCrory and Miss Cochran, of Paint Lick, spent the latter part of last and the first of this week with Mrs. A. H. Baetlin. Mrs. Mary Dunderer is visiting her father, Mr. Pate Parrish, Miss Alie Markeberry, of Lancaster, is at Crab Orchard Springs, Mrs. T. A. Gresham, of Lancaster, and Mrs. F. L. Clifford, of Bluefield, W. Va., are visiting friends here. Mr. Will Myers left Monday for Cincinnati to take course in dentistry. Miss Mattie Beazley, who has been very sick, is better.

MT VERNON, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY.

The Ald. Society met with Mrs. W. M. Poynter Thursday.

The sanctificationists are holding a meeting at the court-house.

The sheriff left Wednesday night with four prisoners for the penitentiary, Capps and Proctor, white, Esley Lackey and Tom Modrell, colored, sentences ranging from 2 to 10 years.

Mrs. James Robinson is out from Middletown visiting relatives. Mrs. James Maret, who was been quite ill, is somewhat better. Mr. Milton Miller, Jr., is quite ill. Mr. and Mrs. Brack Graves are guests of Mrs. M. J. Miller. Mrs. M. C. Williams visited Crab Orchard last week.

The flag raising was attended by a large number of our citizens, who enjoyed the exercises so well prepared for their entertainment. The children had been well trained by Prof. Pierce and Miss Lucille Joplin. Mr. R. G. Williams treated the audience to a fine oratorical effort in presenting the flag. Rev. J. M. Walton replied in the yule. Mrs. J. W. Nesbitt read a paper adapted to the subject in which all were interested and the band closed the exercises by playing in its finest style a patriotic air. The flag of stars and stripes now floats over the school house on the hill.

If your children are subject to croup watch for the first symptom of the disease—hoarseness. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse it will prevent the attack. Even after the croupy cough has appeared this remedy is always available for colds and whooping cough. For sale by Craig & Hocker, Stanford, Ky.

An afternoon paper published at Paducah a day or two ago stated in connection with a funeral that "all the absent children were present at the services."

MIDDLEBURG, CASEY COUNTY.

A large delegation will go from here to Liberty to hear Wm Hardin speak on the 7th. Everybody here is for Wm, even to the negroes—I guess.

Rev. W. E. Foster went to Louisville Monday to enter the Theological Seminary. He will return and preach at the Baptist church on the 2d Sunday in October.

E. A. Greer and Miss Lucinda Goodman will be married Thursday at Mr. Abbie Launau's. Another wedding will take place in this section soon. Don't all guess at once.

Rev. M. A. Middleton has been engaged in a meeting for the last 10 days at Grove. It is reported that at the onset of the meeting, he denied report that was current here, that he had embraced the doctrine of sanctification, and characterized the writer as a "devil," because we said some weeks ago that he "had it" (sanctification). After making these statements he went on and conducted the meeting after the fashion of the new era, and Sunday night preached a sermon in support of the delusion in which he took us to task again. After stating his subject and position upon it, he then said that a nest of hornets had been stirred up and he wanted to settle them. And turning round facing the writer, said with great emphasis and seemingly with fire in his eyes, "Now publish me in that dirty little sheet sent out from Stanford if you want to do so," and continued to refer to me occasionally throughout his discourse. Now it matters not with us what Bro. M. believed or preached, he must admit that we have always treated him kindly and we think as he had a very small provocation for getting upon his hips. We have always reported his meetings in this section in the columns of the "dirty little sheet" as he terms the Indiana Journal, and have praised whatever effort he made along the ministerial line, and can not but feel that his lecture Sunday night delivered in a noisome hall did much more harm than good, especially to his much cherished delusion, sanctification. Now we do not know whether Bro. Middleton is sanctified or not, but these statements are sanctified for the people and they can judge as to how much sanctification he has and as to its quality.

THE PACING KINGS.—The defeat of Joe Patchen and Fidel by John R. Gentry in phenomenal time at Dubuque, Ia., on the 25th shows that the little stallion is at himself again and makes more uncertain the great race amongst Robert J. John R. Gentry, Joe Patchen, Guy and Coleridge at Lexington, Wednesday, Oct. 26th. With favorable weather the track will be in record-breaking condition and we shall be surprised if neither Robert J. nor John R. Gentry breaks the race record of 2:027, as the Lexington track is lightning fast and in better condition this year than ever before. In fact it has no superior in America, and it will be worth going thousands of miles to see such horses on such a track. The cheap excursion rates to Lexington will entice thousands to see what they will probably never have another opportunity to witness, as both Gentry and Patchen will be retired to the stud next year.

The INTERIOR JOURNAL says that democrats cannot afford to deliver the State to the republicans because Mr. Hardin prefers to dictate rather than be dictated to. The remark calls out the following anger of the Louisville Post which does not think the I. J. has stated the whole case against Mr. Hardin. That is a matter for settlement between the two editors but may the question be permitted to be put to both: Can the democratic party afford to deliver Kentucky to the republican party because of anything? Can the democratic party afford to deliver Kentucky to the republican party because of anything? Can the democratic party afford to deliver any State over to the republican party? Is there anything in the history of the republican party which warrants the belief that under its administration Kentucky would be bettered?

—Gov. Hogg, of Texas, trying to stop the prize fight. Gov. Hogg has been an ex-leader these many months now.

Mr. J. H. Franssen, our efficient assistant P. M., spent last week in Rockcastle county. Mr. A. R. Dyche, of London and W. H. Clark, of McKee, republican candidate for State Senator, were Monday. Mrs. Mary O'Mara and Mr. H. A. Baker are in Louisville.

Our schools opened this Fall with the most flattering prospects they have ever had. Our people are waking up to the realization of the need of an education and are using every means to give their children the advantage of the opportunities placed before them.

Col. W. O. Bradley spoke here Tuesday.

The court house was well filled, but the crowd was nothing to compare with what the party managers expected.

The attendance from the country was small and gave evidence that there is not as much interest being taken in the race as the republicans would like to see, but every effort will be made between now and November to bring out the voters.

After a very pleasant visit and trip with the press gang to Hopkinsville, Atlanta and other points of interest, we are glad to be at home once more. The press had a most delightful trip and received a most hearty welcome along the line of their journey. The Exposition is not complete yet, but there was much to be seen and the managers did their best to show us every place of interest and did all in their power to make our stay in their city pleasant.

He Maketh His Enemies to Praise Him.
Editor D. E. O'Sullivan was so surprised that Gov. McCrory greeted him cordially, after his years of abuse of him that he straightway went and printed the following in his Critic. One Congressman is a born gentleman and never lets small matters turn him from the middle of the road he has selected to use through life.

No man in Kentucky or out of it has been a more persistent opponent of Congressman McCrory than I have. Whenever he has offered for the Senate I have never failed to express the unfavorable opinion I held of his efforts at statesmanship. At times, I must confess, it seemed that I had some personal grievance against him, but often in the heat of conflict, one's pencil goes a little deeper under the cuticle than was intended.

At any rate, what I started out to say was, that I met Gov. McCrory the other day, and there was nothing in his pleasing smile, warm handshake and cheery manner to indicate that I was not his bosom friend. When a man gets the art of politicking down to such fine basis, I must tip my hat to him. If I had been in Gov. McCrory's place, I should neither have been so courteous nor considerate. The secret of the governor's popularity is now an open book to me. He keeps the even tenor of his way in spite of criticism and assault, and whatever happens he never loses his gentlemanness, that is part of his nature.

At last there is a revenue surplus in sight. The September tariff and internal revenue receipts will exceed the demands upon the treasury by $3,175,040. There is not much doubt that the revenues hereafter will be sufficient to meet the expenditures, in spite of the excessive pension payments and the extravagance of the last Congress in appropriations. When that becomes the habit of the revenues there will no longer be a gold-reserve problem to deal with.

An afternoon paper published at Paducah a day or two ago stated in connection with a funeral that "all the absent children were present at the services."

Editor D. E. O'Sullivan was so surprised that Gov. McCrory greeted him cordially, after his years of abuse of him that he straightway went and printed the following in his Critic. One Congressman is a born gentleman and never lets small matters turn him from the middle of the road he has selected to use through life.

No man in Kentucky or out of it has been a more persistent opponent of Congressman McCrory than I have. Whenever he has offered for the Senate I have never failed to express the unfavorable opinion I held of his efforts at statesmanship. At times, I must confess, it seemed that I had some personal grievance against him, but often in the heat of conflict, one's pencil goes a little deeper under the cuticle than was intended.

At any rate, what I started out to say was, that I met Gov. McCrory the other day, and there was nothing in his pleasing smile, warm handshake and cheery manner to indicate that I was not his bosom friend. When a man gets the art of politicking down to such fine basis, I must tip my hat to him. If I had been in Gov. McCrory's place, I should neither have been so courteous nor considerate. The secret of the governor's popularity is now an open book to me. He keeps the even tenor of his way in spite of criticism and assault, and whatever happens he never loses his gentlemanness, that is part of his nature.

At last there is a revenue surplus in sight. The September tariff and internal revenue receipts will exceed the demands upon the treasury by $3,175,040. There is not much doubt that the revenues hereafter will be sufficient to meet the expenditures, in spite of the excessive pension payments and the extravagance of the last Congress in appropriations. When that becomes the habit of the revenues there will no longer be a gold-reserve problem to deal with.

An afternoon paper published at Paducah a day or two ago stated in connection with a funeral that "all the absent children were present at the services."

Editor D. E. O'Sullivan was so surprised that Gov. McCrory greeted him cordially, after his years of abuse of him that he straightway went and printed the following in his Critic. One Congressman is a born gentleman and never lets small matters turn him from the middle of the road he has selected to use through life.

No man in Kentucky or out of it has been a more persistent opponent of Congressman McCrory than I have. Whenever he has offered for the Senate I have never failed to express the unfavorable opinion I held of his efforts at statesmanship. At times, I must confess, it seemed that I had some personal grievance against him, but often in the heat of conflict, one's pencil goes a little deeper under the cuticle than was intended.

At any rate, what I started out to say was, that I met Gov. McCrory the other day, and there was nothing in his pleasing smile, warm handshake and cheery manner to indicate that I was not his bosom friend. When a man gets the art of politicking down to such fine basis, I must tip my hat to him. If I had been in Gov. McCrory's place, I should neither have been so courteous nor considerate. The secret of the governor's popularity is now an open book to me. He keeps the even tenor of his way in spite of criticism and assault, and whatever happens he never loses his gentlemanness, that is part of his nature.

At last there is a revenue surplus in sight. The September tariff and internal revenue receipts will exceed the demands upon the treasury by $3,175,040. There is not much doubt that the revenues hereafter will be sufficient to meet the expenditures, in spite of the excessive pension payments and the extravagance of the last Congress in appropriations. When that becomes the habit of the revenues there will no longer be a gold-reserve problem to deal with.

An afternoon paper published at Paducah a day or two ago stated in connection with a funeral that "all the absent children were present at the services."

Editor D. E. O'Sullivan was so surprised that Gov. McCrory greeted him cordially, after his years of abuse of him that he straightway went and printed the following in his Critic. One Congressman is a born gentleman and never lets small matters turn him from the middle of the road he has selected to use through life.

No man in Kentucky or out of it has been a more persistent opponent of Congressman McCrory than I have. Whenever he has offered for the Senate I have never failed to express the unfavorable opinion I held of his efforts at statesmanship. At times, I must confess, it seemed that I had some personal grievance against him, but often in the heat of conflict, one's pencil goes a little deeper under the cuticle than was intended.

At any rate, what I started out to say was, that I met Gov. McCrory the other day, and there was nothing in his pleasing smile, warm handshake and cheery manner to indicate that I was not his bosom friend. When a man gets the art of politicking down to such fine basis, I must tip my hat to him. If I had been in Gov. McCrory's place, I should neither have been so courteous nor considerate. The secret of the governor's popularity is now an open book to me. He keeps the even tenor of his way in spite of criticism and assault, and whatever happens he never loses his gentlemanness, that is part of his nature.

At last there is a revenue surplus in sight. The September tariff and internal revenue receipts will exceed the demands upon the treasury by $3,175,040. There is not much doubt that the revenues hereafter will be sufficient to meet the expenditures, in spite of the excessive pension payments and the extravagance of the last Congress in appropriations. When that becomes the habit of the revenues there will no longer be a gold-reserve problem to deal with.

An afternoon paper published at Paduca

STANFORD, KY., - OCTOBER 4, 1895

E. C. WALTON, Business Manager

Our great jewelry and silverware sale is still on. Others are getting the best goods for the least money. Why not you? Penny's Drug and Jewelry Store.

PERSONAL POINTS.

MR. BEVERLY C. ROUT is back from Missouri.

DR. M. L. BOURNE is dangerously ill of typhoid flux.

The editor and his wife went to Louisville yesterday.

Mrs. JAMES P. HALEY has been sick for a week or more.

Mrs. FREDA MEIER, of Lexington, is the guest of Mrs. Wm. Rice.

Mrs. J. S. HOGAN is in Cincinnati buying goods for Hughes & Tate.

Mrs. EUGENIA WHITLEY, of Boyle, has been visiting Mrs. J. E. Farris.

Mr. WILL H. SHANKS is in Louisville laying in stocks of winter goods.

Mrs. BRIDELL CHANCELLOR, who has had malarial fever, is convalescing.

Mrs. JAMES H. YEAGER and Miss Sue Willie Hale are visiting in Danville.

Miss MAMIE BRAZLEY is visiting her sister, Mrs. P. C. Sandidge in the West End.

Mrs. J. E. POTHMAN left for Jackson Tuesday morning to visit Mrs. J. E. Pothman.

COL. D. W. TRIBBLE, of Madison, is quite ill at his sister's, Mrs. P. P. Nunnelly.

MR. ISAIAH WHITE, wife and daughter, Erminie, of Casey, are visiting Mr. Levi Myers.

Mrs. ED. WALKER and Miss Jane Walker, of Garrard, were guests of Mrs. J. C. Flays.

Mrs. ODELLA THOMSON, of Louisville, is up on a visit to her brother, Col. W. G. Webb.

WILL BURTON has returned to Pittsburgh to resume his position with the Laclede Coal Co.

Miss LUCY BOURNE, of Somerset, is visiting her grandfather, Mr. J. P. Hill, at Maywood.

MR. W. STUART MYERS writes that he has gone to Albany, Oregon, to collect for his Range company.

Mrs. JAMES INGRAM, of Louisville, and Mrs. Mary Green, of Elizabeth, are visiting relatives at Maywood.

Misses NETTIE and GEORGIA WHAY and Mr. J. W. Rout, Jr., are staying at Linnett Springs for a few days.

Mrs. W. M. LUCKY has returned from a delightful visit to her son, S. E. Luckey, and family at Gallatin, Tenn.

VINCENT GARR, familiarly known as "Put," will enter Centre College and become a member of their foot ball team.

MR. CYRUS BROADWELL, president of the Louis Slader Paper Co., of Cincinnati, was here yesterday to see the L. J.

DR. ED ALCORN and pretty daughter, Miss Lucy Masterson Alcorn, of Louisville, spent Wednesday with Mrs. Bettie McKinney.

Rev. W. T. Brooks, editor of the Transylvanian and pastor of the Transylvanian Christian church, accompanied by Miss Lillian Tanner, paid us a call Tuesday.

REV. AND MRS. W. E. ARNOLD left yesterday for a four-year's sojourn in Somerset. Mr. Arnold thinks his prospects for successful and pleasant work are very fine and he goes hence with a cheerful heart.

The Louisville Post says that Tee Carpenter is an unlucky devil, but he keeps in good humor in spite of it all, adding however, that if the hog he lost on the C. S. had been his fox hounds, he would have been kicking yet.

LT. CALLEN GOIN, of Missouri, who married in this county in 1865, is here after attending the G. A. R. meeting at Louisville and the reunion at Knoxville, looking up the record of his marriage, which he heard was not properly recorded.

CITY AND VICINITY.

SCHOOL SHOES at Severance & Son's.

A. H. KINLEY has a girl at his house.

BUY a "Wonder." W. H. Wearen & Co.

PRESCRIPTIONS filled day or night at Craig & Hocker's.

The Signal Service predicts showers to-day or to-night.

THREE frosts and no rain. All signs fail in dry weather.

For the best and cheapest Fall suits go to Jessie D. Wearen.

FULL stock of heating stoves, &c., at Higgins & McKinney's.

AIR tight heaters for coal or wood, something new in stove line. Higgins & McKinney.

New stamped linens, butcher linens, "Indian Head" cotton embroidery, silks, etc., at Severance & Son's.

Come in to-morrow, (Saturday) and see the first installment of Fall and winter wraps and capes. Severance & Son's.

The Q. & C. will run an excursion from Somerset to Cincinnati and return next Sunday at $1 for the round trip. The train will pass Junction City at about 3:30 A. M.

CHINA novelties at Danks, the Jeweler. For oysters, celery and fruits see E. J. Foley.

HAVE your prescriptions filled at Craig & Hocker's.

Don't delay having your eyes tested by Danks, the Optician.

POCKET knives and razors guaranteed. See our new line. W. H. Wearen & Co.

We have a fine line of solid silver tableware to show you. Danks, the Jeweler.

OUR candidate for railroad commissioner, George H. Alexander, will speak here Oct. 19.

B. H. DANKS is making preparations to receive the biggest line of China novelties ever brought to Stanford.

BRACELETS, links, manicure articles, belts, belt pins, opera guards and sterling silver novelties galore at Danks'.

WILL have open Saturday the nicest assortment of outing flannels, solid and figured percales ever shown here. Sev- erance & Son.

REV. W. G. CAHILL, who would be ux- oride, got off lightly. The jury at Mt. Vernon let him off with two years for shooting and wounding his wife.

FULL line of the latest millinery fresh from the New York market and selected with the greatest care. Call and see how I sell for cash. Mrs. A. A. McKin- ney.

MARSHAL NEWLAND's boy having re- covered, he will now proceed to collect the dog tax or exterminate the brutes. The latter is preferable to those whose nights are made hideous by their howls and barks.

MR. CHARLES FINLEY, republican nominee for secretary of State, will speak here county court day. Mr. Finley is said to make many wild statements and is like a democratic orator, who is well poeted, will answer him.

THE Stanford team went to Crab Orchard Wednesday afternoon and played a game of ball with the nine of that place. At the ninth inning when the score stood 26 to 25 in favor of the Crab Orchard boys, a dispute arose and the game was called. The umpires gave the game to the Stanford club.

AT the suggestion of Chairman G. B. Cooper, of the campaign committee, Major Norman has appointed Judge T. L. Shelton, J. T. Embry, J. S. Owaley, Jr., and E. C. Walton to assist him in swinging the old county of Lincoln back into the democratic column and they are well poeted, will answer him.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

POLLING THEM.—Chairman Godfrey Hanter, of the campaign committee, has issued instructions to his henchmen to poll every voting precinct in the State and ascertain how each man will likely vote. A more thorough or persistent campaign was never made by any party. It never sleeps and every son-of-a-gun of them will be at the polls. Let the democrats bestir themselves or bitter defeat may await us.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

POLLING THEM.—Chairman Godfrey Hanter, of the campaign committee, has issued instructions to his henchmen to poll every voting precinct in the State and ascertain how each man will likely vote. A more thorough or persistent campaign was never made by any party. It never sleeps and every son-of-a-gun of them will be at the polls. Let the democrats bestir themselves or bitter defeat may await us.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

DRY.—Persons who have lived in the section for 50 years or more tell us that they have never seen Cedar and Logan creeks so dry or Dix River as low as it is now. The beds of the two former streams are dusty in many places, while the river has about ceased to run. It is mighty hard to get stock water anywhere now and the prospect gets worse.

